Students Cited for “Fight Club”

Seventeen Idaho Falls High School students were referred to juvenile court for disturbing the peace following an investigation into a “Fight Club”.

According to a police report, the IFHS School Resource Officer received a report of a possible disturbance in the boys’ locker room on Wednesday. Upon investigation, the officer observed several students exiting the locker room and learned that there had been a fight.

One student involved in the fight was later hospitalized for injuries.

Further investigation showed that several students had been convening in the locker rooms over several days to watch fights between students. Officers confiscated video footage taken by the students of these fights.

The students identified fighting in the videos were cited.
